

The Oregon Community Solar Program is supported by Pacific Power.

As a Pacific Power customer, you can subscribe to a community solar project within Pacific Power's service area and see credits applied directly on your monthly energy bill. We're committed to keeping prices low while delivering reliable, increasingly clean energy and supporting our communities.

To learn more about the Oregon Community Solar Program and compare projects, visit oregoncsp.org or call 800-481-0510.

OREGON
COMMUNITY SOLAR
PROGRAM

www.oregoncsp.org
1-800-481-0510

Solar energy is an option.

Subscribe to a community solar project and get monthly credits on your electric bill for helping create a more sustainable energy future.

OREGON
COMMUNITY SOLAR
PROGRAM

Solar energy for everyone.

Whether you rent or own, you can subscribe to a community solar project and receive a credit on your energy bill for your portion of the project's energy generation. It's a great way to support clean energy without installing solar panels on your roof.

Solar projects can be managed by developers, nonprofits, homeowners' associations and community organizations. You can choose from a variety of projects based on your needs and preferences. Subscriptions vary in price, and many can lower your monthly bill.

Learn more about the Oregon Community Solar Program and sign up for a project at oregoncsp.org/get-started.

Income qualifying participants get higher discounts on their bills and will save money every month.

Learn more and see if you qualify at oregoncsp.org/li or call 971-544-8718.

How does community solar work?

1

You sign up as a subscriber to a local solar project.

2

The solar project generates clean, renewable energy for the utility grid.

3

You receive a bill credit for your portion of the solar energy generated and pay a subscription fee on your monthly utility bill. The credit covers the subscription fee and generally saves you a bit of money on your annual electricity costs.